

Stan Sims is the Chief Security Officer of CGI Group, one of the world's largest IT and business consulting services providers. He is an accomplished leader with over 39 years of combined military intelligence, security management and operations experience, and is a retired U.S. Army Officer and combat veteran.

Mr. Sims joined CGI in January 2016 and leads the company's global enterprise security strategy and programs, responsible for the full spectrum of global security policies, standards and practices. Stan is also the chair of CGI Security Leader Council.

Prior to joining CGI, Mr. Sims served as Director of the Defense Security Service (DSS) in the U.S. Department of Defense (DoD). Before his appointment as DSS Director, Mr. Sims served as Director of Security Policy for the DoD. Stan is a 2009 recipient of the U.S. Presidential Rank Award.